SPA SAVINGS

Need some pampering without a steep price? Here, two ways to save on a spa getaway.

- Consider destinations where spas are part of the culture: "Because treatments there are common rituals, they are easily accessible and also affordable," says Heather Mikesell, executive editor of American Spa. A facial mask and all-day access to Istanbul's historic Çemberlitaş Bath costs $32; entrance to Japan's Kusatsu onsen is $10.

- Look for special promotional events. During Wellness Week—March 19–25—you can get treatments for a $50 flat fee or 50 percent off at more than 500 spas, including those at Mandarin Oriental Las Vegas and Arizona's Miraval. Special: T+L readers can register early, starting February 22, at spafinder.com/travelandleisure and buy gift cards for a 10 percent discount (use promo code TRAVEL). Similarly, during National Spa Week (spaweek.com) from April 16 to 22, you can get acupuncture, facials, massages, and more for $50 each.

best deals

(888/363-5022; fairmont.com), an Italian Renaissance-style landmark. THE DEAL Two nights in an Executive suite; tickets to the Seattle Art Museum's "Gauguin and Polynesia" exhibition; Tahitian cocktails in the Terrace Lounge; traditional afternoon tea for two at the chandelier-bedecked Georgian restaurant. COST $498 ($249 per night), double, through April 30. SAVINGS 31 percent.

TRAVEL + LEISURE

Trip of the Month

A custom itinerary from one of the world's top tour operators, in partnership with Travel + Leisure Elite Traveler, our travel club for deals on hotels, cruises, and more.

Flying near Mount McKinley.

EXPLORING ALASKA Adventures in the Far North SEVEN DAYS

► THE OPERATOR U.K.-based tour operator Black Tomato. ► THE TRIP Get up close to the Alaskan wilderness on land, water, and from the sky on this weeklong tour. After a day in Anchorage, board a floatplane to survey the view from above North America's highest peak, Mount McKinley, before touching down beside the rustic-luxe cabins at Winterlake Lodge. Kayak, hike, or fish for salmon and trout—and learn how to cook your catch. Trip highlights a second floatplane ride over the glaciers of Lake Clark National Park to Tutka Bay Lodge, a remote retreat on a seven-mile fjord, for three days in untrammeled Alaskan wilderness. ► COST From $7,899 per adult, based on double-occupancy accommodation; includes airfare from New York City. ► SAVINGS Up to 10 percent on the trip package (which includes an 80 percent discount on the regular annual membership rate for the Travel + Leisure Elite Traveler club).

► DETAILS Current Travel + Leisure Elite Traveler members can call the T+L Elite Traveler travel counselor at 855/653-9055 to book this trip. To join T+L Elite Traveler, go to TLEliteTraveler.com/TripoftheMonth for details, then call to book the Trip of the Month. You'll also gain access to hundreds of other travel deals.
